

10 TONER PRODUCTS FOR FRESH CLEAN SKIN IN THE SUMMER

May 2, 2019 Dr. Mona Ebead

While toner is a popular cosmetic among those with oily skin, its importance may far exceed that. The toner is used to clean your skin and remove and purify dust particles, contaminants and impurities on it. And if you think that the cleanser might do this alone, you are wrong. The toner's job is to remove these remaining impurities on your skin after washing them with the cleanser, and this is because the cleanser usually includes oily ingredients that can leave a thin layer full of impurities on your skin.

Most toners consist of aqueous liquid, with customized ingredients and botanical extracts designed to deal with different skin types. There are different types of toners, the most important of which are moisturizing toners, a toner that is soothing for dermatitis, an astringent toner, and a cleansing toner.

The most important ingredients that are usually found in toners include;

- Rose water

It is a soothing and purifying ingredient for the skin that gives it an attractive lustre.

- Chamomile flower extract

It is a soothing ingredient for the skin, which prevents inflammation and purifies the skin.

- Some types of alcohols or propyl compounds

These compounds are astringent and help cleanse oily skin, but are not suitable for people with dry skin. Its main function is drying the skin and also acts as an anti-bacterial. Alcohol compounds are not harmful to the skin, as it depends on the qualities used and their proportion in the product.

WHAT IS THE WAY TO USE TONER

Use the cleanser first, then rinse the face with warm water, dry and wash with cold water. Then a cotton swab is dipped in toner solution and passed over your skin, neck and chest area morning and evening, and then you can use a moisturizing cream that is appropriate for your skin.
